

SOUTH SUBURBAN COLLEGE/BUSINESS & CAREER INSTITUTE, PRESENTS

RACISM ANONYMOUS: EXPLORING THE HIDDEN POWER OF RACISM IN THE WORKPLACE (A Virtual Webinar)

Facilitated by Leah Hinton, BA
Thursday, February 25, 2021
9:00 - Noon

3.0 SHRM & HRCI continuing education credits offered

Cost: $35 per person; $30 per person if 3 or more from the same company attend, $10 surcharge for HR credits

To Register, please email bci@ssc.edu or call (708) 225-6055.

Zoom link will be provided after receipt of payment.

RESERVATIONS & PAYMENT REQUIRED BY 5:00 P.M. TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 23rd

For additional information please call (708) 596-2000 x3254 or email aglumac@ssc.edu

In this lively and engaging 3-hour introductory workshop, participants will explore the internal and external influences that shape our personal and racial identities. We then examine racism and how those mostly invisible forces elicit structural advantages for some but also create many harmful impacts on our society and those living within it. Four questions that will be addressed include:

1. What is racism really and how does it affect everyone?
2. How has racism contributed to the shaping of your identity?
3. How does racism show up as a power system in our culture and at work?
4. What do I need to know in order to fight racism on the job?

The workshop serves as a starting point for an organizational journey toward becoming an anti-racist, multicultural organization.

Who should attend?

- Business owners, administrators, C-suite executives
- Supervisors, managers, team leaders
- Human resources professionals
- Employees

Sponsored by:

Leah Hinton is a native of the south suburban Chicago area who has an extensive background in human resources with a concentration in talent acquisition, training, diversity people culture and professional development. Leah holds a BA from Chicago State University. Her work experience includes cooperative, organizational and agency employment relations. Leah is excited to bring this important dialogue to the southland business community.

SOUTH
SUBURBAN
COLLEGE
BUSINESS & CAREER
INSTITUTE